

DETROIT MAN RELEASED WHEN FINE IS PAID

James Caruso, 33, Discharged After Buffalo Man Settles Assessment

James Caruso, 33, of Detroit, arrested Sunday night, Dec. 19, when he arrived here in a Dodge roadster loaded with 90 one-gallon cans of whisky, was released from the County Jail this morning when the $1,000 fine levied against him by Mayor Earl M. Hazen was paid.

Payment was made by a friend of Caruso's, said to be from Buffalo, N. Y., who came here this morning.

Both the liquor, which was believed to have been intended to supply holiday season trade in Marion and Columbus, and Caruso's automobile, have been confiscated by local authorities. The liquor will be destroyed and the machine, a 1926 model in perfect condition, will be sold after publication of notice required by law.

Caruso's case was one of the most unusual coming before the local police court in recent years, due to his remarkable achievement in packing the 90 one-gallon cans of liquor in the small baggage compartment at the rear of his machine.

Caruso pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Mayor Hazen the day following his arrest but had no witnesses to support his claim that he had no knowledge of the liquor being in the car and was found guilty. He asserted that he was a "business man" engaged in legitimate trade.

Arrested on Senate
The arrest was made on Senate just as Caruso was preparing to drive his car into a garage which he had rented for the night. Local police had received a tip that a shipment of liquor was in his way here but had expected that a truck would be used to transport it.

The cash paid for Caruso's release totaled $987.20. The $1,000 fine and costs amounted to $1,005.20 and he was granted an allowance of $150 a day for the 12 days that he was imprisoned in the County Jail.

CITY PREPARING FOR NEW YEAR'S REVELRY

Wide Variety of Activities Offered Citizens for Over Holiday

Noise making and entertainment devices, human and otherwise were being tuned up today for the grand splurge of the year when 1936 makes its final bow at midnight tonight.

In churches, homes, theaters and clubs there will be gathered all the beauty and chivalry of the city for what promises to be the highest celebration Marion has witnessed in several years. Hundreds of persons, of course, will make the center of their activities the midnight shows being given in the Marion and Grand Theaters. Parties at homes or clubs will follow this opening of the New Year revelry, and there is no time limit on how long the parties may last.

Following the New Year Day holiday there will be one of the outstanding dance programs of the season at The Star Auditorium on Saturday night, when the Chicago, Nightingales, a 10-piece colored novelty orchestra will put on a vaudeville act followed by dancing. This dance is for New Year's night.

Watch parties in the churches have always been a popular method of seeing the New Year in, and these will be the program in many Marion churches to-night.

MILFORD E. HAZEN GIVEN POSITION AT WHEELING

Son of Mayor Hazen Appointed Assistant Superintendent of Life Insurance Co.

Milford E. Hazen, of 637 N. Oak-st., son of Mayor Earl M. Hazen, has been appointed assistant superintendent of the Western & Southern Life Insurance Co. with headquarters in Wheeling, W. Va., and will go to Wheeling tomorrow to prepare for taking charge of his new position Monday.

The Wheeling office is one of the most important in the tri-state district and Mr. Hazen's appointment to the assistant superintendency there is regarded as an unusually substantial promotion. The appointment comes in recognition of his five years of service as an agent in connection with the company's Marion office.

L. L. Terry, former Marion man, is superintendent in Wheeling.

The Detroit News will be distributed to dealers and newsboys through Heaver & Hudson, commencing Jan. 1, 1937.—Adv.

Marion Man Finds $180 in Roll Returns It To Owner

MANY centuries ago a cynical old gentleman by the name of Diogenes equipped himself with a lantern and roamed about his home town searching in vain for an honest man.

If Diogenes conducted his search in Marion today he could find the object of his quest at the Central Fire station and no lantern would be needed.

This will be disputed by Bob Stafford, member of the Fire Department, who modestly asserts that he is entitled to no special distinction for honesty. The fact remains, however, that yesterday Stafford found a roll containing nine $20 bills on the floor of the Miller Market on S. Main-st. and that he immediately took steps to see that the money reached the man who had lost it.

After notifying the manager of the market of his find, Stafford took the roll to the Fire Station and turned it over to Chief McFarland to await developments.

About 7 o'clock last night, less than three hours after the find, John Bender, local butcher, appeared at the Fire Department headquarters and claimed the money.

While honesty may not be as rare and unusual as in the time when Diogenes conducted his search, Bender seemed to think that he was fortunate in recovering his $180 roll and showed his appreciation by handing Stafford a substantial reward.

SEEK TO ENJOIN COLLECTION OF PAVING CHARGE

Property Owners on Oak-st Bring Suit Against County Treasurer Messenger

Suit to enjoin the collection of an assessment for the paving of North Oak-st. last year, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Elizabeth Rehrmann, V. Rehrmann and Emma R. Berger owners of a plot of ground on that street. The footage of the lot is given in the petition as 132 feet.

Temporary injunction holding up the collection of the semi-annual payment was granted late yesterday by Judge George H. Scofield. The suit will come up for regular hearing during the next term of court.

According to the petition the assessed valuation of the property at the time the paving was completed was $1,650. The plaintiffs claim that the assessments for the paving total $1,304.10, split into 20 payments of $65.21. The petition asks that the county treasurer be enjoined from collecting these assessments on the ground that they exceed the legal limitation of one-third of the assessed valuation. The plaintiffs express themselves as willing to pay the assessments up to one-third of the valuation, which they place at $550.

Stoll Wins
The mandamus suit brought by Willis G. Robertson and his attorney, to require Justice M. O. Stoll to show cause why he should not sign a bill of exceptions necessary to carry the case of Charles Schladt against Willis G. Robertson to the Common Pleas Court has been decided in favor of Stoll by Judge George B. Scofield.

The case started in Stoll's court several months ago and judgment went to Schladt by default. Later Robertson appeared and said that he had not appeared for a misunderstanding. Stoll refused to sign a bill of exceptions which Robertson's attorney filed, and the mandamus suit followed.

Pleads Guilty
Francis Suttler, charged by J. F. Ulton, humane officer, with non-support of a five months old child, pleaded guilty to the charge before Justice M. O. Stoll yesterday, and was given a suspended sentence of 60 days in the workhouse and $50 fine.

Fine and sentence were suspended on condition that he contribute $5 a week to Ulton, to be paid to Suttler's parents for care of the child.

Case Dismissed
E. H. Fuller was arraigned before Justice M. O. Stoll yesterday on a charge of stealing, filed on an affidavit sworn out by John W. Truex, farmer living near Morral. Fuller, near Marselles, The case was dismissed for lack of evidence.

Fuller was charged with taking $23.50, which Truex charged he realized on the sale of oats, which Fuller contracted to haul for Truex. Truex claimed that Fuller sold the oats for 42 cents a bushel instead of 38 cents a bushel, as Truex expected. The evidence was not sufficient to support a charge of stealing, Stoll held, and dismissed the case.

SEARCH IN DETROIT FOR BOY PROVES FRUITLESS

Disappearance of Carlton Vir-den, 18, Marion Business College Student, Mystery

Search made in Detroit for Carlton Vir-den, 18-year-old youth who disappeared from his home here on Dec. 2 and left a note indicating that he had drowned himself in Crystal Lake, has thus far been without results, according to a letter received by local authorities today from the Detroit chief of police.

Although local authorities still believe that the youth's body will eventually be found in Crystal Lake, they sent inquiries to officials at Detroit after having learned that young Vir-den, prior to his disappearance, had talked of going to that city.

Acting on the theory that he might have run away from home and left the suicide note to mislead relatives and police, the boy's guardian, M. A. Vir-den of Meeker, requested local authorities to have the search made in Detroit.

Thorough Search
In his letter the Detroit chief said that a thorough search of the city had been made but yielded no trace of the missing youth. He said, however, that his department will continue the hunt. Police visited practically all Detroit restaurants, as young Vir-den was formerly employed in a Marion restaurant and it was thought he would seek similar employment in the Michigan city.

Crystal Lake is completely frozen over and the ice is so thick that it has been impossible to search for the body there since more than a week ago. It will be at least another week before the hunt there can be resumed.

ANTI-SALOON KLAN EFFORT WILL BE AI

Special Report To Be Made Reed Slush Fund Committee

Washington, Dec. 31—The ramifications of the Ku Klux Klan's nationwide efforts of the Saloon League to control the turn and congress will be discussed early in the new year in a special report from the Reed slush fund committee on its recent investigations, it was learned today.

The Klan's activities in politics will be subjected to scrutiny through a report on testimony taken in the inquiry into Indiana senatorial primary, evidence will relate to alleged high Klan officials to dictate nominations in various states control election machinery. The report will touch on a testimony to an alleged deal by which Earl B. Mayfield, Democrat, Texas—said to be a Klan member, secured several years ago over Klan candidate who contested election.

Testimony High Spot
One of the high spots in report will be the testimony of William F. Zumburn, general for the "hooded order" was said to be a sufficient political power in the capital to "grant any favor" a Klansman. It was Zumburn, appeared as counsel for Mayfield, latter's contest.

The Anti-Saloon League's ban of prohibition will be chiefly in its financial phases. Report will point out all the tribulations received and expended through its national organizations in the last several years. In 13 states, the evidence which this total exceeded $8,157,000, numerous states unreported, indicated that the league's expenditures exceeded a million dollars a year. Daily Proverb—"He who can not command himself, it is folly for him to think to command others."

Who knows? That $5,000,000 sequential deficit may keep Philadelphia awake.

Let's put it another way. How would a supreme court selected by Senator Hoffman null
the country?

OR hand, we assume that Dean Inge's resolution, if any, will be to be serious for the entire year.

Bachelors are said to make the best automobile drivers, which is, no more than natural.
They are free from any back-seat-driving attachment.

Where this country takes on a handicap
when entering into a disarmament agreement
is that we take the pact seriously and live up to it.

Even our good councilman friends must be inclined to feel, at times, that maybe they did a little too much whistling before emerging from the financial woods.

Unquestionably, a man of Mr. Hoffman's peculiar mental make-up is not without enemies, but very probably of them all he is a class by himself.

It is never safe to judge a man by what was said of him by one who is gone. Had the latter lived, the intervening time might have caused a revision of opinion.

Paul Potret no doubt meant all right in declaring that the skirt is doomed, but he should have said, in the interests of accuracy, that what is left of it is doomed.

Half a hundred New Yorkers no longer question the fact that booting whisky is poison.
They gave it a try-out, Christmas eve, and are dead.

We have never seen any of the photographs
of the human voice which that Ohio State university professor has succeeded in taking, but it's our guess that no pictured voice looks so bad as some of them sound.

In one respect the southern "bathing beauties" are as much like the northern as twin sisters. None of them shows the slightest indication of possessing dimpled knees.

We are not inclined to criticize, but it might have been just as well had Judge Landis not waited quite so long to disinter the remains of the Cobb-Spencer case.

"I have often wondered," remarked the fellow who lives next door on the way down town
this morning, "if the people who pass around hand bills and litter up porches and storm doors have ever noted their psychological effect upon the good housewife."

George Bernard Shaw says his observation
about Christmas has been misunderstood.
What he really means, George says, is that the Christmas spirit should hold over the entire year. And all along, George has been telling us that he always means what he says even though he doesn't always say what he means.

It has been said that you can't mix whisky and gasoline. Theoretically, that may be all right, but thousands of automobile accidents
which have resulted in fatalities show that it has been done.

Christmas was a week ago, but the real significance of its aftermath will not be appreciated to the full before tomorrow—and then only if the post-office people are expedient in the handling of the mail.

Mayor Walker has intimated to the theatrical producers and managers of New York City that, unless they start house-cleaning at once, he's going to do something desperate, but we suppose the thing will result in James having his picture taken some more.

The Delight of Coasting.

There may be some who will see little merit
in the action of Mayor Hazen in barring traffic
from south State street hill that the youngsters may enjoy coasting in comparative safety, but their number is limited. The most of us are glad that the mayor appreciates what coasting means to the boys and girls and the delight
they get out of it.

Barring traffic from south State street from St. James to Columbia for two periods daily—between 4:30 and 5:30 in the afternoon and from 7 to 9 in the evening—may cause a little inconvenience to some, but no hardship to any one. And almost anybody should, almost anybody will, be glad to suffer a little inconvenience to give joy and pleasure to the youngsters, such as they get from coasting.
The most of us will recall that coasting was one of the real delights of our boyhood days
and some of us, were the truth known, probably wouldn't half mind trying it again despite the flight of the twenty, or thirty, or forty years since we last felt the thrill of it.

It isn't every winter that we have fine coasting, so let the youngsters enjoy it while they may.

Regards to you, Mr. Mayor, for the action taken. Your heart is in the right place.

Why of Danger in Over-Exercising.

The fact that very often it takes the vacationer many times the duration of his vacation to recover from it has become so generally recognized that it has been made the basis of many a paragraphic jest when the vacation period is at hand. The most of us probably have noted an after-vacation ill-ness
or slow-up on the part of those with whom we are closely associated in business or industry upon their return from an outing of two or three weeks. Most of us must have noted—and this is particularly true of those whose daily work is not of an active physical nature
—that for some time following a vacation we can not apply ourselves to our work or concentrate our minds upon it as we do ordinarily.
One who has watched a force of workmen from even note the effect of the Sunday lay-off from work. Any employer who has given the matter study knows that the day following a holiday work always drags. This is primarily responsible for "Blug Monday." No force is at its best on Monday, or Tuesday for that matter.
By Wednesday it has again hit its stride and usually reaches its zenith by Thursday. Friday a force may still be going at high speed,
but looking ahead to the coming Sunday generally shows its effect upon Saturday. A drag may be noted and a loss of effectiveness. Keeping track of production, day by day, will bring surprise to any who have never done so.

As we have said, the effect of vacations on work, whether it be mental or physical, has long been recognized. We have known that doctors do slow us up for a time, but all of us do not know just why. Speaking before the members of the Society of Directors of Physical Education in the Colleges, at their gathering in Hotel Astor in New York City this week,
Dr. Edwin Schneider, professor of biology at Wesleyan university, told us "the why." Talking on "Blood Changes and Their Significance in Exercise and Training," the doctor said the sedentary type of person, who uses his annual vacation for an "exercise spree" does so to little bodily benefit, for the reason that such a person catches the "red marrow of his bones napping." As the red marrow is the purveyor of red corpuscles to the blood system, the destruction of red blood corpuscles in a sedentary
man who suddenly indulges in violent exercises far exceeds their manufacture. The result is that he finishes his exercise with temporary anemia and goes back to work feeling listless
and good for nothing.

Dr. Schneider declared blood sugar to be the great energizer. Fed with lumps of sugar in the middle of the afternoon, German soldiers on a long march were enabled to ward off fatigue, he said. And the same mid-afternoon menu had the same effect on British foot carriers.

Dr. Schneider tells how temporary fatigue
from over-exercising may be overcome, but, unfortunately, the remedy to some people might prove worse than the disease, and this is very often the case with those who doctor has warned against undue exercise.

The safest course is for the professional man,
the office worker, the clerk and others whose occupation is not largely physical to refrain from strains upon their physical powers, whether upon an extended vacation or merely off work for an afternoon. More men of middle life and past have been injured by indulging in too much and too severe exercise than by lack of exercise. But a lot of people can not be made to believe this till too late.

That river and harborability is liable to prove something of a shock to a man who not so long ago rented a $37.50 house.

At a dollar a head, the government has paid out during the past eight years $18,182 for the killing of Alaskan eagles. It isn't explained whether the eagles have been feeding
on salmon or gold nuggets.

Those who are reasonably satisfied with life
as it is should studiously refrain from trying to float the new year in this evening.

George Bernard Shaw says if he ever wrote
another scenario he would want at least $150, 000,000 for the job. Considering the fact that movie producers are cutting down expenditures, it may be some time before George's services are requisitioned along the line mentioned by him.

One is just about bound to admire Miss Dorothy Richards, chairman of the National Christian Students' conference, not because she admits that she smokes cigarettes and not because she intimates that she likes to pet over though she restrains the liking, but because she is so manifestly honest and truthful.

The theological group at the National Student conference voted a resolution in which the members pledged themselves not to sanction or lend their support to any future war. They did not except the invasion of their home land by a foreign foe—the declaration was without qualification. Here we have a fitting illustration of what the propaganda of the pacifists and less numerous enemies of the country such as communists and bolshoivists is accomplishing.

VAGRANT VERSO.

HERITAGE.

I think I had a forebear once
Who sailed wild seas with wilder men.
Who touched strange ports and heard strange tales.
Around the world and back again . . .
And in my blood there seem to beat
A horse's thudding, galloping feet,
His heaving flanks beneath my feet.
A spirit comes to haunt me too
Of one who trod the Gypsy-trail
Through forest aisles green, sun-drenched shade;
At night the leaping flame, the wall
Of violins, swift dancing feet,
Flashes of scarlet, swirling feet . . .
There may have been a woman too,
Among them all, with lips too red
And eyes too dark and laugh too light—
But oh, I think a heart like lead—
And when her ghost comes creeping up,
I will not look but turn my head.
And while I sit so tamely here
And gently read and slyly just so,
No one can see inside of me
Nor guess the ways my heart may go,
Its keen, bold dream—its mad, sweet dream—
No one may know.
—Anne Abbott Dore.

UNITED STATES—"I HOPE YOU HAVE GOOD LUCK, NEIGHBOR"

Fine Year Ahead for Sensible Ones.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Tomorrow will be January 1, 1927, the first day of the new year. What sort of a year will it be?
When December 31 of next year arrives there will be plenty to say: "I am glad this year is over
—it is the worst I ever had."

Why is this?
It must be admitted, of course, that many, perhaps most things that happen to us are not of our own making. The illness and death of near relatives and friends. The loss of property through the fault of others. Accidents, tornadoes, misfortune in many ways may overtake us.

But there are so many things within the sphere
of our own influence and under our own control, that we have it in our power to order and regulate
to a great extent our lives and circumstances.
This is particularly true in the matter of health.
Dictators are overthrown, but some of them rule for years and years. You are the dictator of your own destiny and can determine through your life, long or short, what manner of life it will be.

Disease is largely the result of carelessness and neglect. Because you have relaxed your vigilance and forgotten your duty to yourself your body has suffered. Lack of fresh air, sleep, exercise, sunlight and proper eating, have brought illness upon you. Three-quarters of the illness you have is the result of your own shortcomings.

What better New Year's resolution can you form than to promise solemnly that you will not neglect your body during the year to come? Why not devote the year to right living and right thinking?
"The body is God's temple. In it dwells your immortal soul. To me it seems almost irreverent and profane to neglect this sacred temple."

You can't be arrested for throwing stones through the windows of the Methodist church. But far more serious than this is to do something which will damage the body, God's temple.

You owe it to your Maker, your family, yourself, to guard and protect your body. Good health is the most precious of all good gifts. It is yours if you will take it and make it.

Let us resolve that 1927 shall be a year devoted to good health for us and others.

Some Questions of Interest Asked and Answered.

Q. Does willow charcoal contain a poison?
W. G. H.
A. Neither willow charcoal nor any other charcoal could contain an actively poisonous substance since charcoal has necessarily been prepared at high temperatures, and all of the volatile and active materials have been driven off. In a chemical way charcoal is an inactive neutral substance.

Q. Where is the New York State Library school?
Z. R.
A. It is in Albany. It was founded in 1887,
and is conducted as a part of the state library.

Q. What causes excess shrinkage in cotton goods? N. G.
A. Excess shrinkage is due chiefly to loose-ness of weave.

Q. Did the Florida hurricane hit the Bahamas?
E. B. D.
A. The Bahamas islands suffered much damage in the hurricane which swept southeastern Florida in September, 1926. The island of Bimini was most severely damaged.

Q. Do potatoes, both Irish and sweet, have seeds?
S. T.
A. Both the Irish and the sweet potato produce true seeds, but in neither case are they used for propagation. The sweet potato plant produces seed only in very warm climates,
while the Irish potato produces seed only in cool climates.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Civilized governments are sometimes guilty
of official acts which show very little thoughtfulness. The legislative assembly of Australia has passed a bill taxing newspapers a certain amount per copy. Anything that increases the difficulties of maintaining a free press or tends to block the channels of publicity is a peril to the nation.

American railroads in 1926 earned more money than in any year since they were returned to private operation March 1, 1920.
That is an unmistakable sign of sound times
and of abiding prosperity.

Despite the record-breaking volume of business in 1926 cars and locomotives are in the best shape since the war, and they were handled with more pronounced efficiency than at any time since the government happily gave up its attempt to run them.

It rings hopefully on the ear to hear Mr.
Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, say, in sizing up the year to come from labor's viewpoint: "Another favorable indication is the halt that has been called in communist activities in New York City. So completely have communist methods been discredited that it will be less easy to impose upon workers in the coming year."

Few of us realize that the American Federation of Labor, composed of members of trade unions, furnishes one of the soundest
bulwarks in all America against communism, bolshivism, anarchism and the like.
Sensible business men will respect the strength and purposes of the best leaders of the American Federation of Labor.

The minister of an important church in a Chicago suburb has been trying to find out why men don't go to church. He has gathered all sorts of reasons and is dealing with them.
One man writes, as so many others have either written or thought: "I can worship just as well
reading a good book by the fireside as I can going to church."

Roosevelt once said to a man who cut out
church because he thought he could worship
in the woods on a picnic just as well: "Yes,
you might worship God that way, but I never knew any one who did."

THEODORE E. BURTON.

Theodore Elijah Burton, congressman and ex-senator, was born at Jefferson, Ohio, December 20, 1851. He served as a member of the Ohio House of Representatives from 1888 to 1890,
from the Twenty-first Ohio district until his election to the United States senate for the term 1903 to 1915. In 1921 he was returned to the house as representative from the Twenty-second Ohio district. As a member of the Interparliamentary union he has participated in meetings of that organization in St. Louis, London, Geneva, Paris, The Hague, Vienna
and Copenhagen. He acted as a delegate to the Republican national convention of 1904, 1908, 1912, and received the unanimous support of the Ohio delegation for the presidential nomination at the convention of 1916. Con-

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS.

Sometimes I think that police judges must be the happiest men in the world. All the time an endless stream of papers and hearing told here and there about the funny things that happen in police court. Half the jokes seem to come from there. I guess it must be the jolliest place in town, and everybody there must have just one long snicker from the time
they go to work till shutting-up time.

There was a guy brought in the other day,
in a Detroit police court, for assault, and the judge stopped laughing at the last joke long enough to ask:

"Is it true that you broke a bottle of Canadian beer over this man's head?"
"Well, no, your honor," says the prisoner,
"that ain't strictly true, because I ain't that extravagant. It was a Canadian beer bottle that I broke on his noodle."—Copyright, 1926.

Dinner Stories.

A schoolgirl paraphrased the line "To bicker down the valley," from Tennyson's poem, "The Brook," as follows: "To have an undignified
quarrel in a low place among the hills."

Another girl, given the line from "Lochin-var," "He stayed not for brake," paraphrased it as: "He never stopped for a mechanical contrivance to reduce speed by means of friction."

She was a bright little thing, aged four,
when her mother presented her with twin brothers, and at last she was allowed to see the new babies.

Silently she inspected them as they lay in their cots, then looked in a puzzled way at her mother and asked:

"Mummy, was I two when I was a baby?"

Odd and Interesting.

Q. What per cent of the telephone in the United States are in New York City? G. W. J.
A. Out of a total of 15,000,000 telephones in this country, almost 1,200,000 are in New York City. This amounts to about eight per cent.

Q. Are Russian immigrants permitted to enter the United States? A. N.

A. Russians are not barred unless they are classed among those who come under the category of revolutionists or anarchists or are in other respects undesirable under the general immigration laws. Russia's quota is 2,248 yearly.

Q. What are oyster shells used for? T. M.
A. Shells are used for five purposes:
"shelling" chicken salad, fertilizer, lime and road building. By far the most important use is for shelling. By this is meant the planting of them in oyster beds, in order that the spat may fasten on them.

Q. What constitutes a liquid diet, a light diet
and a convalescent diet? G. G.

A. Under a liquid diet come milk, broths,
beef tea, albumen drinks, gruels, egg-custard,
soups and beverages. Light diet: cream soups,
soft cooked cereals, milk toast, cereals, soft custard,
jambal, creamed chicken and gelatine dishes.
Convalescent diet: soups, boiled tender meats
and fish, baked creamed potatoes, some light vegetables, simple salads, cooked fruits, baked custard, light desserts.

These include a ladies' rest room and a room for private conferences of patrons a spacious meeting place for directors and other company officials and two rooms where mortgage transactions are to be discussed.

Heating Plant

The heating plant has been reconstructed and the furnace room made completely fireproof. This work was done by T. M. Cunningham of this city, who also handled the plumbing contract.

All furnishings were installed by the Marion Furniture Co. of Toledo and this firm also supervised the general planning and decorations.

The Marion Building Savings & Loan Co. is the oldest company of its kind in the city, having been organized on March 3, 1888. Its first location was in an office room over Nelson's jewelry store on E. Center-st. and from there it moved to the second floor of the McNeal-Wolford block on W. Center-st., finally going to the room on the opposite side of W. Center-st. which it will occupy tonight to move into its new home at 134 E. Center-st.

Feature

An interesting and remarkable feature of the company's history is the service of the secretary, Edward Duffee, who has held that position since the date of organization. Although ill health has prevented him from taking an active part in the management during the last few months, Mr. Duffee still holds the office of secretary. He is 60 years of age and resides with his two daughters 225 S. Main-st.

The company has had a steady and rapid growth, records showing that the assets have increased from $92,110.67 to the present total of $3,061,750.37.

Three Presidents

During its 38 years the company has had three presidents, the first having been James H. King, the second John L. Wadell and the third, Frank A. Huber who is now filling the office. Photographs of these executives, newly framed to harmonize with the other furnishings, have been placed on the walls of the directors' room. Behind the Screen

IN the early days of the screen famous teams generally consisted of a hero and heroine who were cast opposite each other so often that their love-making became a routine.

There still remain a few well known teams. The notable examples are Alice Tully and Ramon Novarro; Norma Shearer and Lew Cody; Greta Garbo and Antonio Moreno. These actors do not play opposite each other in all of their pictures but they have been cast together frequently enough to make the combination familiar.

When speaking of Carol Dempster, Ricardo Cortez comes to mind. And when Wallace Berry comes into view can Raymond Hatton be far behind?

Famous teams of the present screen era are more often existent between director and actor. John Gilbert and King Vidor have made three consecutive pictures together, "The Big Parade," "La Boheme," and "Bardelys the Magnificent."

Lon Chaney and Ted Browning have done some of their best work together. Browning directed Chaney in "The Holy Three," "The Blackbird," and "The Road to Mandalay."

Sometimes there is a team of cameramen and star. Norma Shearer has appeared in few pictures in which Ben Reynolds did not make the camera. With the exception of "Annie Laurie," Henrik Sartov has shot every still of Lillian Gish's pictures for the last four years.

"Wild Geese," Martha Ostenso's popular novel is to be screened by Tiffany.

Hal Roach, intrepid short film producer, will direct a series of two reel dramas. Roach believes most stories can be better dramatized in two reels than in the six or seven which commonly make up feature productions.

Although Constance Talmadge and Antonio Moreno made their screen debut at the same time, and continued their work at the Vitaphone studios for a number of years, they now are appearing in the same picture for the first time. And Marshall Neilan who will direct them in "The Vamp of Venice," although he has directed almost every picture of note in motion pictures, has never guided a Vitaphone picture.

BRIEF mention might be made here of a charming little story recently published by William Cather, author of "The Professor's House," entitled "My Mortal Enemy." It is a short book, divided in novel form and requiring only an hour or so of reading... a profitable hour since spent in the company of so capable an artist as Miss Cather. It is a simple little story written from the viewpoint of an observer and is not a story capable of arousing a great deal of enthusiasm or much of a comment, although a book of about the same length as the much-discussed "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." It is briefly can be found desirability Miss Cather's book is deserving of great popularity. For, unlike Agatha Christie, it is not a sensational and novel of life and death with a beautiful woman who chooses love rather than wealth and comfort and whose life in the interesting result of her choice.

H. E. HILL LIKELY TO INTRODUCE PENCE REPEAL

Measure Designed To Restrict Utilities from Collecting Increased Rates Under Protest

Among the bills scheduled for introduction early in the session of the Ohio legislature which is to open at Columbus, Monday, is a proposal to repeal the Pence law, which gives public utility corporations the right to collect increased rates from the public by filing bonds guaranteeing refunds in case the rates are finally ruled out by the state commission.

The repeal proposal was stated today, is likely to be introduced by H. E. Hill, representative from Marion County. Should this arrangement be made, he would also sponsor the measure throughout preliminary proceedings and in final arguments on the floor of the house.

Mr. Hill, who will go to Columbus early Monday morning to be on hand for the assembly opening, said today that he had been consulted by representatives of the Ohio City Solicitors' Association regarding introduction of the Pence law repeal but that no definite plans had been completed.

The repeal proposal is practically certain to carry, according to officers of the City Solicitors' Association, who have conferred with leading members of both the House and Senate and found that there is general opposition to the Pence law.

Warner's Statement
Added strength was given to the repeal movement today in a statement by Fred W. Warner, local attorney who is chairman of the state Republican Central Committee, in which he assailed the Pence law as a statute which is absolutely unfair and inimical to the public's interests.

"I am against the Pence law without reservations and believe that the legislature will waste no time in repealing it," the state Republican leader declared.

Permitte Collections
He indicated that should it become necessary he will appear before legislative committees to which the repeal measure is referred and argue for its enactment.

The Pence law permits utility companies to put increases into effect although protests have been filed and are under consideration before the state commission or the courts. This situation now exists in connection with the Logan Gas Co. rate schedule for Marion and numerous other Ohio cities, which is being fought by the Ohio City Solicitors' Association. Contest over the rates had been pending before the state commission more than a year but the company, having filed a Pence law bond, is collecting on the new schedule.

Public utility companies maintain that the law is fair and it is anticipated that they will put up a determined fight to prevent enactment of the repeal measure.

HUBBY'S STENOGR

Loving

WHEN Bob and Betty were married the friends of both declared it was a perfect catch and enthusiastically prophesied a rosy future for the blissful pair.

But before long it became evident that the two were not fulfilling the promise of "love's young dream" by living happily after. Too often did the casual caller come upon Bob, his month set in stern lines, his manner coolly indifferent; and Betty with eyes teared, her little chin tilted at defiant angle. Gone was the gaiety that had made a gathering at their home so delightful. Instead, guests were uncomfortably conscious of the tension of suppressed emotion.

One fine day Betty's girl chum changed to find Betty in a "blue" mood. Driven by anger, weakened by weeping, Betty revealed the secret. "It's all Bob's fault," she wailed, her hands clenching. "He darts refuses to get rid of his stenographer, and he knows I hate her!"

"But why, Betty?" asked her chum, inwardly disbelieving but outwardly calm and determined. "How the opportunity presented itself, to get at the root of the trouble. 'What has the girl done to you? She must fill her position satisfactorily or I won't keep her. Surely you don't think Bob would'— 'Exactly! You've hit it! Bob is in love with her, or I miss my guess. He couldn't help but be, she is so pretty!'"

"Betty, dear, be sensible." The chum tried reason, but to no avail. "Then he might at least choose a 'homey one!'" stormed Betty. "A married man has no business to shut himself up alone all day long with a pretty woman. Bob is susceptible to feminine charm—don't I know him?"

THERE it was, the same old story in the same old way! Good-looking husband, jealous wife and the husband's pretty stenographer! The eternal triangle flamed in play and story ever since the first day when women entered the business world to disturb the peace of mind of the women who stayed at home.

Bowen, pianist; Mrs. Duncan chorister; Miss Evelyn Long, and Miss Zelma Sewhelfurth, assistant librarians.

Eileen Bourne, writing in a recent issue of a magazine, declares that:

"It may not make the world brighter for the jealous wife to learn the truth, but beauty assuredly is fast becoming the little sister of efficiency in that realm over which her husband presides. It is true, of course, there are some timid ones who still feel more comfortable with a girl who has thin hair and buck teeth. But the majority have enrolled in the new school of business thought which teaches that pleasant surroundings have a stimulating effect on workers in general."

AND there you are! The pretty stenographer is but a pleasing accessory in this new scheme of office decoration.

OBEDIENCE TO LAW CHIEF AIM IN RESOLUTIONS

State Officials' Goals Also Include Tolerance; Advancement of Morality

Columbus, Dec. 31—Desire for "increased obedience to law" featured New Year resolutions made here today by Gov. Vic Donahey and other state officials.

"Neighborhood tolerance, advancement of social, business and industrial morality," and a "rationalized" education that will lead the boys and girls of the Buckeye State to a "high order of citizenship," constitute the goals of state governmental authorities, for 1927.

New Year resolutions furnished International News Service today by prominent state officials follow:

From Governor Donahey: "I hope the people of Ohio, as a body, may resolve to strive in 1927 for neighborhood tolerance and for advancement of social, business and industrial morality. It shall be my endeavor as governor to conduct myself so as to set an example in this respect."

Obedience to Law

From Thad Brown, secretary of state: "Ohio's New Year resolutions resolved: That the year 1927 shall witness an honest effort from the citizenship of Ohio to advance the state to first rank in industry, art, education and obedience to law."

From Joseph T. Tracy, auditor of state: "Father Ohio resolves that for me and my house throughout the New Year we will give obedience to all laws in a cheerful and willing spirit."

From Attorney General Crabbe: "The old year has afforded many examples of organized lawlessness. May the New Year bring a greater respect for law and the rights of our fellow men."

Higher Citizenship

"May all public officials more fully realize that offices are created not for the benefit of the officeholder, but for the purpose of rendering public service for the best interest of all the people."

From Vernon M. Kiehl, state director of education: "My resolution for Ohio is that all educational forces shall be so mobilized as to give to the boys and girls of the state that vitalized type of education that will lead to the high order of citizenship that we all covet."

MARYSVILLE YOUTH IS ARRESTED IN MARION

Suspected of Having Been Implicated in Series of Poultry Thefts

Suspected of having been implicated in a series of poultry thefts at Marysville and vicinity, John Louck, 29, of Marysville, was arrested here about 9:30 last night by the sheriff of Union county and a member of the local police department. Louck, who was taken into custody on Silver-st, was taken to Marysville for arraignment.

Several poultry flocks have been raided in the Marysville district during the last few weeks, police report, and it is believed that most of the stolen fowls were marketed in this city.

One great fault of pleasant people is that you can hardly ever get them to talk to the point about anything serious.

How Dick Hanes Overcame His Money Difficulty

Mrs. Hanes was worried—greatly worried. The baby was sick, and Dick, her husband, was without a job. It had been a very trying year for the little family, with Dick working just every once in a while, and now with Junior ill, it just seemed as if the sun wouldn't shine at all for her.

One evening Dick came home with the news that a promised job would materialize in two weeks time. That was all very good—but in the meantime, what? There was the cost of living bills to be met, along with Junior's doctor bills. The same evening during the doctor's visit, Dick mentioned his lack of money and asked the doctor to wait sometime for his bill, to which the doctor agreed. "However," he said, "what about your necessities—food, clothing, coal?"

The doctor then explained the way the Chassey across the street relieved themselves of their financial troubles. The result was that Dick obtained a loan on his household goods at the Marion Chattel Loan Company, 135 S. State-st, which enabled him to pay all the bills and keep him and his family until his job began. Since that time Dick has had no real worries. He knows now where to go when in need of money and is sure of receiving help.—Adv.

Marion Newspaper's New Year Greetings of 60 Years Ago Reveals Interesting Incidents in City's History

By EDNA DITTON
"WIFE" City Goods Store, Drug Stores, Groceries and Schools.

We're Churches, Shops, Offices, wise men and some fools. We're Lawyers and Doctors, Bankers, Squires, Teachers. We're the best of Mechanics, two Devils, five Preachers."

This blithe little ditty together with a resume touching on topics of city and national interest was heralded as a New Year's greeting to patrons of Marion's thriving newspaper, "The Marion Independent," 67 years ago.

The chief of these greetings was none other than the presiding printer's "drill" of the paper who took this method of expressing his good will to the patrons of the paper and also to add to his none too flourishing coffers. The people seemed to expect the annual trial of the "drill" as a part of the New Year's program and he garnered anywhere from a dime to a hard dollar.

"Carrier's Address"

This particular New Year's greeting or "Carrier's Address" as it was called, was distributed 60 years ago by the late Joe Hatch. Its opening verse was given over to proclaiming the intimate acquaintance of Joe and the streets of Marion and his unflinching faithfulness to his patrons "through the fiercest winter's blast, or the summer's hot sun."

The paper was a weekly and a line was devoted to his patrons not to "look exceedingly blue. If you miss one paper, out of some fifty-and-two."

Tribute to Women

The second verse was given over to the following tribute to the fairer sex:

"Of ladies fair, we still have plenty. Some 'sweet sixteen' some almost twenty; And they look just so kind at a beau. That I'm sure they could never have the heart to say 'No.'"

A big fire in the business district, Friday, Sept. 22, of the year just closed was noted as being of local importance and the fact that the "burnt district" was immediately rebuilt was cited as a proof that the city had plenty of "energy, greenbacks and skill."

Exile Lincoln

Several verses were given over to extolling the virtues of the heroes of the Civil War which had closed the preceding year and to the death of President Lincoln who "died at his post—without a stain."

Any wedding by foreign powers was resented in two pointed lines as follows:

"We have taught foreign nations to keep out their nose from our dish, or we'll pay them in hard kicks and blows."

The poem closed with the thanks of the "carrier" who it was declared would not look blue if instead of one dime he received two.

The greeting of 1865 was distributed by the late Henry Martin, former employee of the Star, who had not been on the job any great length of time before this duty fell to his lot. His verse heralded U. S. Grant for president in 1865 and told of the tread of thousands who came to Marion to buy and sell, who "in no other place could do so well." Public buildings stood as a monument for the city's knowledge, taste and enterprise and the thrift of the city was attributed to the business men.

In calling attention to the girls of this time the following reference was made:

"And then our girls I'll mention next, who put Their hair up so their eyes can not shut; But they are wide awake and neat and pretty And if you cause their ire you'll find they're right; So hurry up girls, all marry if you can. But recollect I soon will be a man."

Paper Owner

The paper at this time was the property of George Crawford and Samuel Dumble and the addresses were written by Mr. Crawford. They were printed free and the proceeds of the sale was clear profit for the carrier. Boys at that time were bound out and apprenticed to their trade. Mr. Hatch and Mr. Martin were each bound out to the owners of the paper, Mr. Hatch living at Crawford's and Mr. Martin at the Dumble home. The mastery of their trade was the only pay required although Mr. Dumble regularly gave Mr. Martin 50 cents every Saturday night for spending money.

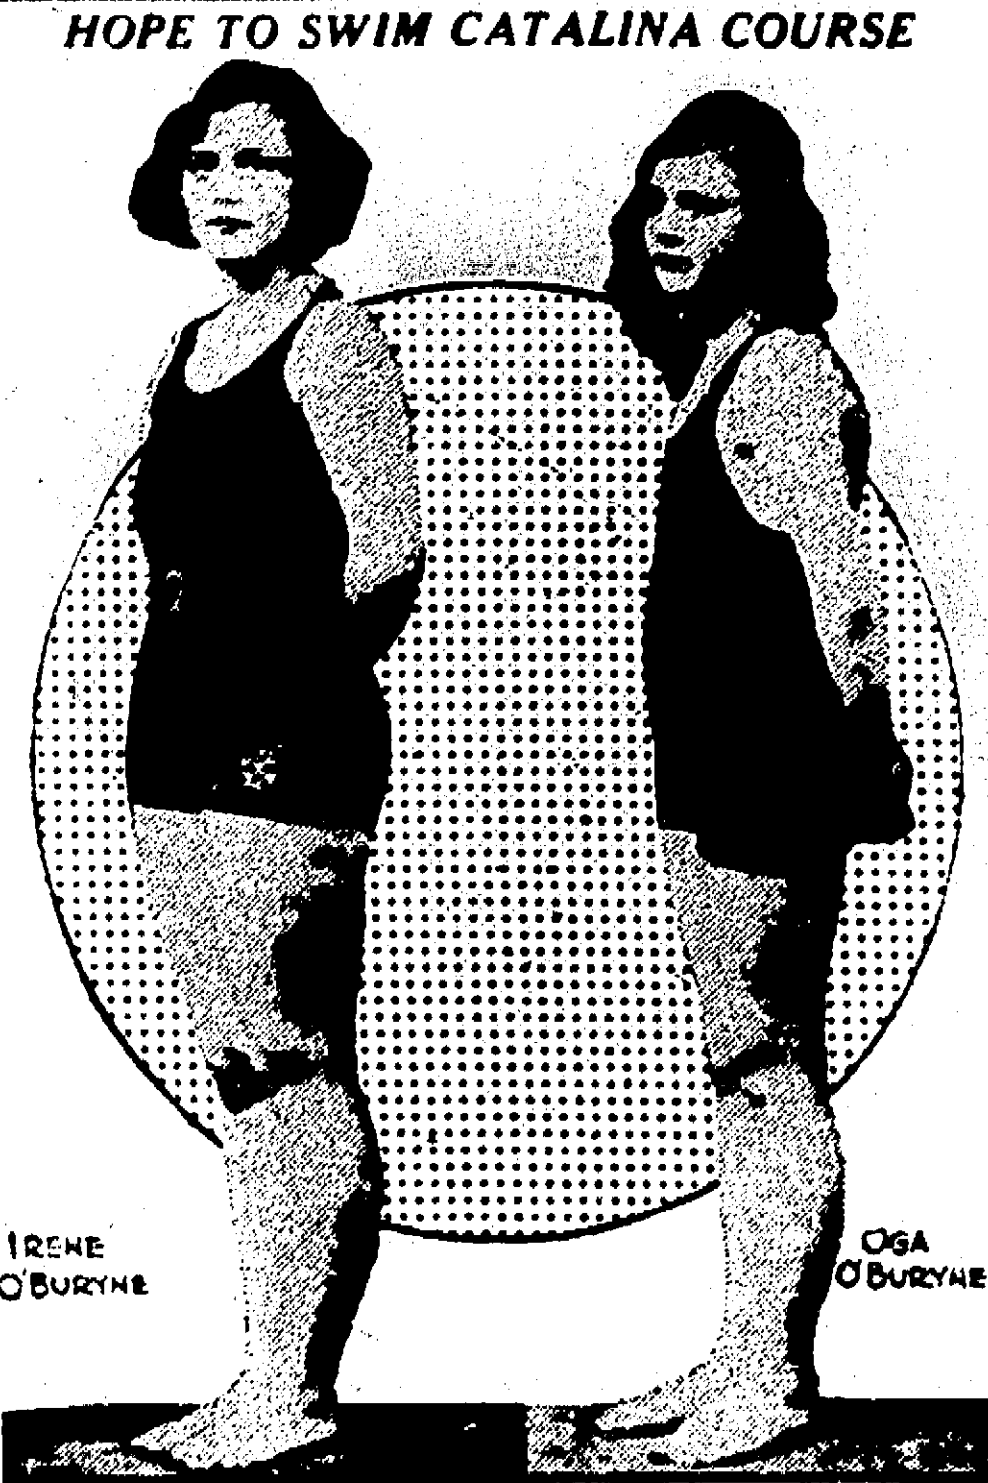

After learning the trade Mr. Martin went to work at a salary of eight dollars a week. He followed the trade for 41 years.

Original Copies

Original copies of the addresses, are the property of Mrs. Henry Martin, W. Center-st, and are highly prized as keepsakes. The copy of Mr. Hatch's address is posted on a leaf of an old ledger belonging to Spire Moore, shoe cobbler, which contains some interesting data in regard to prices of shoes and boots, under the date of 1842. One charge is made to Moses B. Layton.

Among the articles listed are two pairs of shoes for boy and girl, $1; one pair women boots for self, $3.50; one pair women boots for Jacob Weatherholt, $3.50; two pairs fine shoes for girls, $4; mend one boot for self, 25 cents; two pair warm tip shoes for girls, $4; mending one boot for self, 37 1/2 cents; mending boot for self, 25 cents; pair of warm boots for self, $3.50.

George Rupp's account included the making of a pair of boots for self, $1.50, pair of women boots for self, $1.50 and the mending of a pair of shoes for girls, 12 1/2 cents.

Olga O'Burnie, 15, and Irene O'Burnie, 17, Toronto, Canada girls have trained diligently for the Channel swim to Catalina Island off the Pacific Coast in the near future. Irene is the champion girl swimmer and diver of Canada. She holds titles for long and short swims. Olga holds a number of records.

Washington, Dec. 31—The search for a Democratic Moses to lead the party out of the wilderness of defeat that was visited upon it in 1920 and 1921 is being pursued quietly, but nevertheless with considerable ardor, these days in Washington. And thus far without much apparent success.

The driving session of the Sixty-ninth Congress brought most of the active party leaders to the capital, and the discussions and conferences concerning 1928 have been frequent and prolonged. From time to time prominent Democrats outside of Washington have dropped in and participated.

The dinner given here a few nights ago which saw the launching of a boom for Governor A. Vic Donahey of Ohio, was merely one example of the winter's activities. There have been other quiet little affairs which did not attract so much publicity.

Wounds Still Open

Even the most sanguine Democrat admits that the nearly three years that have passed since the Madison Square Garden bloodbath have seen but little progress made in healing the wounds caused there. And most of the party leaders admit that the next twelve months will have to see more progress made if the 1928 convention is not to see a repetition of 1924.

If the convention were held tomorrow it is certain that the candidacy of Gov. Al. Smith would be presented just as militantly as it was at Madison Square Garden. And it would be just as militantly opposed. The strength of Wm. G. McAdoo may not be as formidable as it was three years ago, but it is just as persistent.

In discussing the situation a few days ago a prominent Democrat pointed out that only one of the twenty-old Democrats whose names figured in the 103 ballots at Madison Square Garden could be considered to be definitely eliminated were the convention to be held tomorrow. Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana, who at one stage of the fight could have had the nomination, has died. But all the others are still "available" and two names not voted on in the Garden have been added to the list.

The Complete List

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri. Gov. Donahey of Ohio. As for the rest of the list, here it is:

Al Smith of New York. Oscar Underwood of Alabama. William G. McAdoo of California. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland. David F. Houston of New York and Texas.

Gov. Jonathan Davis of Kansas. Ex-Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio. John W. Davis of West Virginia and New York.

Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska. Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi. Senator Carter Glass of Virginia. Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas. Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana.

Senator John W. Kendrick of Wyoming. Gov. George Siler of New Jersey. Senator Ferris of Michigan. Huston Thompson of Colorado. Gov. Sweet of Colorado. Gov. Brown of New Hampshire.

Somewhere in that list may and probably will be the 1928 nominee for it comprises all of the available timber now in sight.

Of course, it may be that in the next twelve months there will arise Phoenix like some towering figure around which all the present, discordant elements of the party can rally. But it is only rarely that Presidential nominees arise overnight; usually they are built up by a slow methodical process, and then are "born" at the psychological moment in a tired convention.

If a Messiah is coming for the Democrats in 1928, most of the leaders here have failed to see him yet, despite long and anxious watching of the horizon.

Odds on bets can be had in profusion that the 1928 standard bearer will be in the above list.

HAWAII MILLS START GRINDING SUGAR CROP

Work Will Proceed Apace Until Completion Sometime in August

Honolulu, Dec. 31—All over the territory, sugar mills are starting up next week, beginning the grinding of the 1927 crop. In every department of every plantation work will proceed apace until the completion of the harvest which usually comes about the middle of August.

The period between harvest and the beginning of the new grinding season is used by the plantations for repair work on the mills and general slicking up of the plantation fields. Most of the planting in the territory is done between February and July, this being a favorable time because the cane tops used for seed are available from the cut cane.

While formerly it was the custom to discharge large numbers of laborers during the slack season, this practice is being discontinued and men are retained on the plantations even though it may be difficult to find enough work to keep them busy. The large labor turnover resulting from a general turning loose of the laborers was found altogether too costly to put up with.

MOVING SWISS MOUNTAIN SOON TO DESTROY CITY

Lungano Dec. 31—The mountain of Arbedo, in the valley of Arbedo, near Bellinzona, is found to be moving as much as one meter every few days.

At this rate, geologists and other scientists who are studying the curious phenomenon, declare that it will soon wipe out the city which is the capital of the canton of Tesino.

Pimples, Boils, Skin Eruptions

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. That is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S. S. S. You owe it to yourself to try S. S. S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable. "I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I lost so much weight. I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S. S. S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S. S. S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S. S. S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

S. S. S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.—Adv.

Be sure to see our window display of Johns-Manville Roofing.

When you think of Roofing, you just naturally think of Johns-Manville Rigid Asbestos Shingles, don't you? That's because Asbestos Roofing has been used for 27 years. It makes good. We carry the entire Johns-Manville line, and if you are going to need Roofing, come in and figure with us.

Secrets that aren't secrets. A man in this town ordered a fur coat for his wife. Yesterday it came and the store called the wife and told her that her fur coat was here!

Johns-Manville Rigid Asbestos Roofing is just another form of Fire Insurance. It has a hard surface that is fire resisting—can't be set on fire by sparks or embers. That in itself is worth the price, not to mention the beauty of a permanent Roof.

This is the season when the days get shorter. Also the cash.

Nothing seems quite so foolish as to meet somebody on the street and dodge back and forth seven or eight times before you can pass. A certain man and a lady met in front of this office the other evening, and both started to dodge. Finally he says, "Lady, if you'll just stand still, I'll go around you!"

DEMOCRATS OUT TO DRAFT MAN TO LEAD PARTY

Little Success Attending Concerted Efforts To Find Standard-Bearer

Gossip and Guesses in the World of Sport

By Pat Murphy

SATURDAY will be a big sport day in Columbus. In the afternoon, a fight card will be presented at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. The main event will bring together two Columbus boys who have been bitter rivals for some time. One is the little Jewish boy, Lou Bloom. His opponent will be an Irisher, Eddie O'Dowd, who has been making a big reputation for himself in New York and other eastern rings.

In the evening at Memorial hall, Clarence Eklund, the light heavyweight wrestling champion, will meet Ira Dera, of Sault Lake City. These two masters of the grappling game met in Columbus a few weeks ago and put up a whale of a battle. Eklund won the match, but was badly used up in doing so. Memorial Hall will not be a bit too big for the crowd which will turn out to see the return match.

King George never has been a keen lover of the racing game, as was his father, Edward VII, and the experience of the past season is not calculated to increase his Majesty's interest in the sport. Although the king had a score of horses in training, only three could win three insignificant races, worth in all scarcely $5,000.

Aurelio Herrera heard his Christmas card in jail. Patsy-fortune-teller told him, or what have you, so killed him. He was in a little Southern California town for being a "vag." Santa Anna, not Santa Claus, was host to the great Mexican terror of the prize ring. Herrera is serving a thirty-day sentence.

"Sunny Jim" Corbitt, who promoted many of Herrera's great battles, is rolling in race-track money.

The news of the Mexican's arrest was hidden in a short newspaper paragraph. Once Herrera was the most feared heavyweight in the world. He whipped men like Young Corbett, Eddie Slattery, Young Ernie and Henry Yanger. Nelson will tell you even now how hard this Mexican fighter could leave a wallop. Herrera fought Nelson in Butte, Mont., once. The Mexican knocked him down for the count of nine.

In telling the story, stated his head ached for four days after.

Aurelio Herrera is a slouchy, drooping little Mexican man. His age is fifty-three. Once he was physical perfection. Crowds followed him as he paced the pavement of better days.

Now the gutter claims Herrera.

The lord mayor and the sheriff of Newcastle have issued a challenge to play a golf foursome with any other lord mayor and sheriff in England. Whether the contest is to be played in plus fours or in the official robes and chains of office is not stated.

Settlement out of court is in prospect in the suit brought against Jack Dempsey by his former manager, Jack Kearns. The latter has said:

Counsel for the former partner in the heavyweight championship have begun negotiations toward an agreement on the terms of Kearns' demands for a share of Dempsey's winnings until expiration of the management contract, last August. It has been Kearns' contention that, since the Dempsey-Kearns battle was signed during his regime, he should share in Dempsey's end of the purse, although the match took place after their partnership had expired.

The last court move in the proceeding was a further postponement early this month and since then, Kearns said, the lawyers have been dickering on a settlement.

Skating as a recognized sport dates from 1870, in which year a group of Norwegian peasants engaged in competition near Christiania (now Oslo), and the skill they displayed so astounded the inhabitants of the Norwegian capital that people of all classes took up the pastime and a veritable craze for the sport swept over the land.

Dairymen Triumph Over Canton Quint, 34-2

"Horse" Haggerty Fails to Appear; Penry Shines in Thrilling Cage Battle

Horseless Canton Outfit Displays Great Passing Game But Has Hard Luck with Shots; Isaly Men Seem Unable to Get Going; Midways Defeat Collegians, 32 to 24

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB

Sports Editor, The Star

"HORSE" HAGGERTY and his Canton Professionals without the "Horse" did not gallop so well on the Star Auditorium floor last night and never did ride fast enough to catch the lively Isaly Dairy basketeers. When the final whistle called a halt, the horseless Canton lads were trailing by five lengths. The final score was 34 to 29, Dairies on top. It was a disappointed crowd that listened to the excuse offered by a Canton man who explained that the "Horse" had been released from the Canton Club for the remainder of the season. Haggerty was "let go" yesterday and the Dairies knew nothing of his release until he failed to appear with the rest of the gang.

And so the Dairies defeated the Canton crew with Penry doing most of the defeating. "Dapper" ran wild last night. He scored 21 of the 31 points made by his team and played a great floor game in addition. The score at the end of the half was 19 to 13 and Penry had accounted for all but seven of the markers.

It is doubtful whether the presence of Haggerty would have made a great deal of difference in Penry's actions but there is always that vague doubt in the minds of spectators. "Dapper" was "hot" and when he threw the ball at the basket it meant two points. The rest of the team seemed to be unable to get going. Minard made a couple and Applegett dropped in two, while Robbins managed to connect for one. Penry accounted for the rest of the field goals.

Carl, right forward for Canton, promised the crowd a good game in spite of the fact that "Horse" Haggerty wasn't there. His teammates responded and spectators got the thrill they were looking for in the last three minutes of play when, with the score standing 29 to 25, for Isalys, McBride and Dowd sank two buckets bringing the Canton lads within a point of the locals. Penry put the game on ice in the last minute when he connected for two field goals.

The Canton team displayed the best passing game seen on the local floor this season. It is doubtful whether the professionals dribbled as much in the whole game as the Dairies did in the first quarter. Their pass work was snappy but they could either not get near the basket or could not connect when they did get near it.

There were no outstanding stars on the Canton outfit. They were all good. Carl and Christian were tied in scoring with eight points each. McBride had seven, and Dowd was credited with five markers. Conway, at center, talking the great "Horse" place, made only one free throw.

The Dairies were threatened on only one occasion for the first quarter and that came in the final few minutes when the Canton crew staged a brief comeback and came within one point of the locals.

The Midways kept their home record clean last night by defeating Marion Collegians 32 to 24, in a good preliminary. The Collegians were Marion youths home from college for the holidays. Bill Davis, Pat Maloney, McNamara, "Chuck" Scheenlaub, and Bartram made up the team. The Midways have a number of open dates remaining during the rest of the season and Manager Meekle announced last night that he was anxious to schedule games with teams in this vicinity.

Butler Wins

Chicago, Dec. 31—Butler College, from the heart of Hoosierdom, may not be a Goliath on the gridiron, but when it comes to basketball, well—that's different.

It was Butler's fifth consecutive victory over the Maroons.

A. A. U. GETS CONTROL

New York, Dec. 31—Absolute control of the 1928 Olympic team was held by the Amateur Athletic Union today as a result of the final action of the National Collegiate Athletic Association in voting to withdraw from the American Olympic committee. HUBER BOWLERS WIN; POSTOFFICE TEAM LOSES TWO

Y-Indus Wins Two from Business Women Rollers

Huber bowlers copped three from the Penney and Hooking Valley crew last night while the C. D. & M. rollers were taking two from the Postoffice group in the twelfth round of the Industrial Bowling League at the Y. M. C. A.

The Huber men barely came through in the first tilt, winning by only seven points, but in the next two games the railroaders didn't have a chance. After dropping the first game to the Postoffice by a slight margin, the C. D. & M. bowlers stepped on the gas and took the next two with little difficulty.

Lantz was high man for Hubers with 175 points and Wheeler and Sargent were tied for high honors with 184 among the Penney and Hooking Valley men. Tibbault led the C. D. & M. rollers with 241 points, one of the highest scores recorded on the local alleys this season. Keumrley's 160 points were high for the Postoffice.

After dropping the first two games to the Y-Indus bowlers, the Business Women's team last night staged a comeback in the final tilt and won by a slight margin of points. Day, with 173 pins, was high man for Y-Indus. Hammer led the Business Women with 141 points.

Reds Buy Columbus Club; Wingo May Lead Senators

Cincinnati, Dec. 31—Ivy Wingo, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, will more than likely manage the Columbus American Association League baseball team, purchased yesterday by the Cincinnati club, providing he will sign on the dotted line, directors of the local National League team indicated today.

The deal for the club was officially concluded yesterday when President Joseph Carr, of the Senators, informed August Herrmann, president of the Reds, that Thomas Wilson, Chicago, owner of the Columbus team, had accepted the final offer made by the Reds' directors.

Although terms of the deal were not made public last night, it was understood that there would be no sudden shifts of players from Columbus to Cincinnati to the disadvantage of the former club.

The Red directors believe that the purchase of the Columbus club will be a good investment in itself and also that the ownership of the club will be a help to the Reds, as the Senators could be used as a training ground for promising young players.

The American Association ever since its inception in 1901 and was at one time one of the bulwarks of the league. Syd Park field is an excellent one, and at one time the club drew more than 25,000 fans to its home games in a single season.

Has Been Fatture

Of later years, it has been a financial failure, mainly due to the fact that the Senators have been a losing team. It is reasonable that, with the backing of the Cincinnati club and under the energetic leadership of Wingo on the field, the club can soon be returned to a paying basis. At least that is the firm expectation of the Red directors.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

Today was the last day of the old year, and the snow was white and the sun shone on it till it squinted up a fella's eyes. I won't have to milk the dumber brutes again this year, but I will have to milk them in the morning just the same.

We all fed the turkey this morning because it was the last time it would have anything to eat and we thought we ought to be good to it. Then we thought it would not need its feathers any more so we made it up to play Indian. We were not going to pull them out if it hurt, so I pulled out the biggest one it had with a quick jerk, and it didn't holler, so we pulled out all of its tail and wing feathers.

Younis did not want us to do it, and when Pennis said, "Gee, it looks funny!" Younis said, "You'd look funny too if all your tail feathers were pulled out." He said, "Gee, I haven't got no tail feathers. I ain't a turkey," and she said, "No, but geese have feathers too."

We all put feathers in our hats and we got some smut off a kettle I snuck out of the kitchen and put war paint on our faces and we were doing a war dance in our yard when my aunt hollered, "Thomas Aristides, where did you get them feathers?" And I didn't answer, we all skunk out for the pond as fast as we could go, and I didn't dare go home for dinner, and I was afraid to go home for supper but we are going to blow up the barrel in our yard, and when we were rolling it in my mother came out and got after us all for pulling the feathers out of the turkey, but I told her the turkey was dead and would not miss them, and she said she had a good mind to tell my father on me, and I was afraid she would. Women certainly ruin a lot of fun for a fella.

Banty snuck his Sunday suit over to our barn and we have got it stuffed with hay and a bag stuffed with hay for the head, and his Sunday hat on it and we are going to lay it across the barrel, and if it blows up we will have some fun seeing how high it goes. I asked my father if I could set up to see the New Year in and he said it was all foolishness but he didn't care if my mother didn't, and she said she didn't, so we have got some old tin pans and sticks and we are going to parade through town till it is time. I am glad I am a boy and not a cow. A cow doesn't have any fun or go to heaven, and when it dies it is made into round steaks cut thin, and shoes and collar buttons.

Daily Bedtime Story

BY HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

"Well," said Uncle Wiggily to himself and partly to his wife as he hopped out of the hollow stump bungalow one afternoon, "I am going after my last adventure."

"Your last adventure?" exclaimed Mrs. Longears in surprise, for well she knew how fond her husband was of such happenings. "You don't mean to say you are going to give up adventuring, my dear? Why, what will the children do for bedtime stories if you don't have adventures?"

"Oh, I am going to have plenty more, I hope!" chuckled the bumpy gentleman.

"But you just said," went on his wife, "that you were going to look for your last one."

"I should have said my last one this year," went on her husband. "This is the last day of the year, you know. Tomorrow it will be the new year, 1935, and of course, then I shall start having new adventures."

"I hope you have many jolly ones," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, who was sweeping the porch for the last time in the old year.

"Thank you," answered Uncle Wiggily. "The same to you."

He was about to hop away to look for his last 1934 adventure when his wife called him:

"Oh, how about some white cakes this time? White cakes for our New Year's cakes? What about them?"

"I'll bring some," promised Mr. Longears.

"Remember—white ones—not red ones," his wife added. "For the last time the bunny brought New Year's cakes something happened, as I told you in the story before this."

"White cakes it shall be!" said Mr. Longears. He was hopping down the path when Nurse Jane called to him:

"Will you please bring me a bottle of ink? I want to write some New Year's cards."

"Ink you shall have," promised Mr. Longears, and on he hopped, over the fields and through the woods, looking for an adventure.

Pretty soon, all of a sudden, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping past a hollow stump, he heard a voice shout:

"Hold on there! Wait a minute! Not so fast!"

"Dear me! One of the bad chaps!" thought Mr. Longears. "This is an adventure all right, and not a very jolly one, either!"

He was wondering whether it would be better to run and try to get away from the bad chap or to try to play a trick on him, when a jolly laugh sounded and out of the hollow stump came Uncle Butte, the goat, who, when he wasn't at home, was a traffic policeman.

"Ha! Ha!" bleated the goat with a laugh. "I guess I fooled you that time all right; didn't I, Uncle Wiggily?"

"You surely did," was the answer. "I thought you were the Wolf or Fox. But I'm glad you aren't!"

"So am I!" said the traffic goat. Then he hopped on his way to tell the New Year's celebration tales which way to go, and Uncle Wiggily decided he would go to the bakery and get the white cakes, for he had had adventures enough.

When the bakery cat and had put the white cakes in a bag for the bunny, Mr. Longears went next door and bought a bottle of ink for Nurse Jane.

"Blue ink is all I have," said the little mouse girl in the store.

"Blue ink will do very well," said the bunny.

The path was a bit slippery.

He told her when I brought white ones, my dear."

"So you did, and I got white ones,"

"I should have said my last one this year," went on her husband. "This is the last day of the year, you know. Tomorrow it will be the new year, 1935, and of course, then I shall start having new adventures."

"I hope you have many jolly ones," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, who was sweeping the porch for the last time in the old year.

"Thank you," answered Uncle Wiggily. "The same to you."

He was about to hop away to look for his last 1934 adventure when his wife called him:

"Oh, how about some white cakes this time? White cakes for our New Year's cakes? What about them?"

"I'll bring some," promised Mr. Longears.

"Remember—white ones—not red ones," his wife added. "For the last time the bunny brought New Year's cakes something happened, as I told you in the story before this."

Final Week is Marked by Irregular, Reactionary Movements of Stocks

Unexpected Selling Pressure Develops in Market Owing to Belated Registration of "Tax Losses;" Year-End Reports Show Slowing Down in Some Important Departments

New York, Dec. 31.—The final week of the year in the speculative markets contained the usual irregular and reactionary movements of stocks and commodities, with the tendency to recede as the week advanced.

Some unexpected selling pressure developed in the stock market by reason of belated registration of "tax losses," but the professionals who attempted to turn this movement into an extended reaction had little to show for their efforts.

The year-end business reports showed an unmistakable slowing down in some of the important departments of industry, and a decline in such basic factors as freight car loadings, steel mill operations, bank clearings and motor car sales somewhat below the early estimates. In some quarters of Wall Street there was a disposition to look for an extension of this reaction well into 1927, but the leaders of business were not, as a rule, in agreement with such conclusions.

Shatters Records

The steel trade reviews pointed out that the 47,000,000 tons of finished steel produced by the industry this year has shattered all previous records and that the influx of actual orders for the next few months was sufficient to keep mills well occupied the first three months of the year. Oil experts pointed out that the relation between production and consumption of petroleum was the best in a decade, notwithstanding the high production of crude oil at the year-end. The motor car manufacturers are not undeterred and the money situation is unusually favorable.

The week in the stock market was ushered in by a pronounced reaction in prices of the leading industrial shares, as the result of selling pressure which represented little more than the play of opposing forces among the professional stock traders. As the decline in prices continued, considerable liquidation of stocks was forced out, and this, combined with aggressive short selling, resulted in losses of one to seven points.

Market Displays Strength

When it was found that few stocks were available for purchase at the lower prices of the Tuesday reaction, extensive short covering was in order and good recoveries were made, particularly in the stocks under pressure. As a rule, the market displayed a remarkable recuperative strength, in view of the prevailing high average price of representative industrial and railroad stocks, and the inclination to bearishness on the part of the professionals in the financial district.

Continuance of the 3-1/2 per cent call loan rate in the face of a $31,000,000 increase in brokers' borrowings and further calling of loans, was an agreeable surprise for the bulls in the stock market, while the buoyancy of listed bonds of every class evidenced the abundance of investment money awaiting employment. The commodity markets were generally steady, with the exception of grain and cotton. Wheat declined about five cents a bushel in some of the outside markets, while cotton lost $1 a bale. Foreign exchanges were steady and foreign bonds firm.
